CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

Dear Shareholders,

Overall results were positive in the six months to 31/12/16 in a stabilising market for global investments.

The Company's investment portfolio increased 16.0% (net of expenses) in the period under review. This outperformed the MSCI All Country World Index return of 9.6%, due primarily to stock selection in the industrial, financials, and energy sectors providing relative performance above that of the benchmark.

The NTA per share increased from $1.28 at 30 June 2016 to $1.43 at 31 December 2016, after payment of a 4.5 cent per share dividend in September 2016.

The profit in the first half was $1,015,408 compared to $1,054,749 in the prior corresponding period ("pcp").

The revenue decreased slightly from the prior year ($3,424,153 compared with $3,688,770 in the pcp), primarily due to the reduction of investable assets resulting from the on-market share buyback. There were no significant transactions otherwise during the period that impacted these results.

In keeping with the distribution policy no interim dividend was declared.

The dividend/distribution target for 2016/2017 is 3% of the pre tax NTA at 30 June 2016 or 3.8 cps. This will be paid from retained earnings and/or realized capital gains net of tax for the period. As at 31 December 2016, the retained earnings position equates to 4.0 cps and the net realized capital gains net of tax 0.6 cps.

The company has decided to re-institute a share buyback over the next 12 months to facilitate capital management in support of the stock.

In keeping with the company's recent initiatives to improve shareholder communications, shareholder briefings with the Portfolio Manager have been arranged for the last week of February through to the first week of March in Melbourne, Perth, Adelaide, Sydney and Brisbane.

Finally, this will be my last Shareholder Message as your Chairman. I am retiring as a director and therefore as Chairman, effective as of today's date. Having served 14 years on the Board, the past 5 as Chairman, it is time to renew the Board at the top. I am delighted that Chris Freeman will be succeeding me as Chairman. He has a wealth of experience in the financial services sector, most notably in senior positions within the BT Financial Group. For myself it has been a pleasure to serve and I wish you all well.

Yours faithfully,

The Templeton Global Growth Fund Ltd ("TGG") investment portfolio steadily recovered and materially outperformed the benchmark, delivering a return of 16.7% in the six month period.

PERFORMANCE REVIEW

The second half of calendar year 2016 was almost the opposite of the first half. In the first six months of the calendar year the Index declined slightly, but TGG's portfolio under-performed significantly. This period was characterised by great market uncertainty with concerns around commodities (and commodity producers' credit) and Chinese economic growth. June then saw the British electorate's unexpected vote to leave the European Union, which further contributed to the sharemarket's flight to safety. In the six months to June 2016 the performance of the market's defensive sectors stood out with consumer staples, telecoms and utilities only exceeded by a rebounding energy sector. TGG had relatively little exposure to such defensive sectors because stocks in these areas were dramatically over-priced as other market participants flocked to their perceived attractions, without regard to their high valuations.

Major Region Returns (6m to 31 December 2016)	TGG (%)	Index (%)
Asia	11.8	8.6
Europe	18.4	8.3
Eurozone	23.7	12.3
Rest of Europe	12.0	4.9
North America	17.6	10.5

In the six months under review, however, the Index returned 9.6%, but TGG's portfolio outperformed substantially. Concerns that were abundant in the first half of the calendar year seemed to recede with rising commodity prices, most notably oil, gradually boosting inflation and more broad-based economic strength. There was also a rising expectation of increased fiscal stimulus with both US Presidential candidates espousing a desire to boost infrastructure spending, the new Canadian PM pursuing more fiscal largesse and various central banks stepping back from their aggressive quantitative easing plans, which culminated early in 2016 with the extreme move to negative interest rates. These changes led to rising bond yields and allowed stock market participants to move away from their mantra of safety as the most (if not only) desirable characteristic for stocks. The best sector performance came from financials, along with technology and commodities, which benefitted TGG, while being dramatically under-weight the "bond proxy" sectors of consumer staples, real estate and utilities also added value.

Arguably the election of Donald Trump was the “shock” that the market received in the latest half year, but in stark contrast to the impact of Brexit, TGG’s portfolio was well positioned for this eventuality. This positioning wasn’t as a by-product of a view on the likely election outcome per se, but rather that the market’s reaction to the election has been to further extend the rising view that we are moving away from the period of extreme quantitative easing and that the global economy may be on a more sound footing than was perceived in the first half of calendar 2016. This is a view we share, as highlighted on numerous occasions, and one for which the portfolio is positioned.

Sector Returns (6m to 31 December 2016)	TGG (%)	Index (%)
Consumer Discretionary	14.7	10.5
Consumer Staples	(2.4)	(3.8)
Energy	19.2	12.8
Financials	34.7	25.3
Health Care	(0.9)	(2.6)
Industrials	21.6	10.8
Information Technology	17.6	15.7
Materials	24.0	16.2
Real Estate	n/a	(2.5)
Telecom Services	(0.9)	(1.3)
Utilities	n/a	(3.8)

This was not just, however, a rally by under-valued sectors. It was a broad-based recovery in value stocks, perhaps best exemplified by the fact that TGG’s holdings out-performed the Index in every sector and in each of the major regions.

The sectors in which TGG’s holdings out-performed most strongly were energy, financials, industrials and materials. Not surprisingly given the strength in the oil price, winners in the energy sector were quite broad-based, although the energy services companies performed particularly well.

Within the financials sector TGG’s holdings delivered an average return of almost 35% highlighting that it was also a widespread rally. A couple of the portfolio’s Asian bank holdings missed out, only delivering single-digit returns, but 40% plus returns from Eurozone and North American financials overall, and 33% from those in the Rest of Europe highlight the breadth of the improvement. Obviously, this is coming after a 9% decline in the six months to June 2016, so needs to be kept in context. Aegon, Barclays, Credit Agricole and Morgan Stanley appreciated by more than 50%. However, even with those stock price recoveries, of those four companies only Morgan Stanley is trading at a premium to book value as at 31 December.

Our performance in each of the industrials and materials sector was driven, most notably, by an individual company in each, Navistar in the former and Glencore in the latter. Navistar has been a long-term, and relatively unsuccessful holding for TGG, but the strategic position of the company as an independent US-based heavy truck manufacturer has always been attractive and Volkswagen's acquisition of a 20% position in the firm is recognition of this, leading to a massive share price rally in the half. Glencore, in contrast, is a relatively recent acquisition by TGG, first purchased in late 2015. In general we have preferred to invest in energy companies, rather than miners, as the commodity sell-off took its toll on stocks within those sectors, viewing the long-term demand fundamentals in the oil industry as much more forecastable than for the Chinese-dependent metals producers. However, Glencore was beset by a range of issues and the company's moves to de-gear their balance sheet, along with a strong trading franchise left the shares significantly under-valued when we purchased them for TGG. Overall in 2016 the shares rose 200%.

While the portfolio's health care holdings out-performed their sector peers a decline in value is not why the portfolio is invested in these companies. The pressure on the sector stemmed from both the overall rotation out of defensive sectors and stocks, as well as the market reflecting on the potential risks to US spending on health care that might occur under a new President, of whichever persuasion. Ultimately with the election of Donald Trump some of the stocks within the sector rallied late in the half, but there were also a number of disappointing performances. Specific portfolio holdings that declined by more than 10% were Getinge, Gilead, Medtronic, Roche and Teva. While each has witnessed some disappointment in how their business has developed in the half, all remain significantly under-valued in our view. As an example, those five holdings are currently trading at price-to-earnings multiples of between 6 and 16 x 2016 earnings. The ASX200 health care sector, by contrast, trades on 25 times earnings.

Two other significant stock contributors of note were the portfolio's two largest holdings; Microsoft and Samsung. Both are obviously very large companies and extensively followed by the market, but are also, in our view, misunderstood. Windows has always been a key focus for Microsoft investors, however, the business is one of the dominant enterprise software vendors in the World today, entrenched through a range of products from Microsoft Office, through to Outlook and onto various other areas that operate behind the scenes as the operating system for servers, as a leading database competitor to Oracle and the like. Recently the market has taken a shine to the company's strengthening position in cloud computing where it is strongly positioned as the number two vendor behind Amazon Web Services. Likewise, Samsung's smartphone position generates a lot of headlines, a number of them negative during recent months with the fiasco around the Samsung Note 7's battery fires, but the strength of the company's franchise exists in the hardware that sits within its own, and competitors' smartphones. Samsung's leading position in memory, displays and semiconductors leave the group well positioned and delivering very strong operating results.

The portfolio's significantly different regional positioning to the Index, overweight in Europe, underweight US shares, did not significantly impact relative performance in the half.

PORTFOLIO STRATEGY

While the market's views have clearly changed very dramatically in the last six months, ours have not and, therefore, TGG's portfolio positioning remains broadly consistent with where it was at 30 June 2016. The portfolio is regionally overweight in Europe and Asia and underweight in US stocks, while by sector is overweight in financials, energy, health care and telecommunications, and underweight in consumer staples, info tech, utilities and industrials.

Overall as we head into calendar year 2017 there are both opportunities and challenges for global markets. The key opportunity for TGG shareholders is from a broadening of the economic and therefore earnings recovery to more sectors (financials and commodities most notably) and regions (outside the US), which should further entrench the incipient value recovery.

The challenges primarily relate to the valuation level of the US share market and the extended stage of the earnings cycle in that market, uncertainties surrounding the actions of President Trump, another round of European elections and the ongoing overhang of Chinese debts.

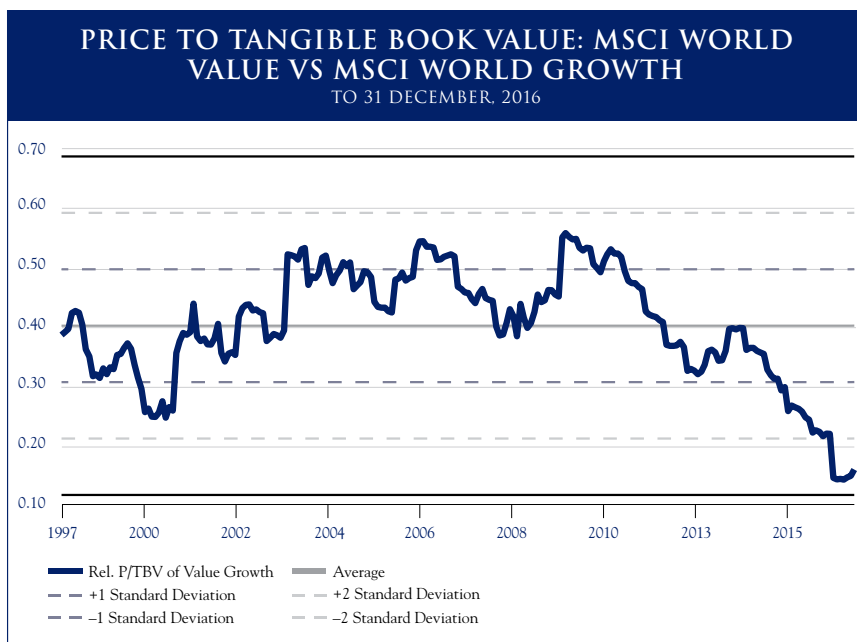

Notwithstanding those concerns, TGG's exposure to the US market has increased slightly, with a number of new names added to the portfolio, including a couple of technology names, Apple among them, but the overall allocation to Asian and European companies is broadly in line with where it was six months ago.

From a sector perspective there have been more significant changes. The exposure to financials has actually increased in the half despite there being significantly more sell transactions than purchases in the period, reflecting the strong performance by TGG's holdings in the sector. TGG no longer holds shares in Lloyds Banking Group in the UK or Deutsche Boerse, while part of the holdings in BNP, Credit Agricole, JP Morgan and Morgan Stanley have been sold. Of those positions that have been trimmed, only the position in Morgan Stanley has actually declined as a proportion of the overall portfolio, reflecting the significant out-performance of those shares.

The energy position of the portfolio has, in aggregate, been reduced as a number of the portfolio's holdings have now reached fair value and while some of the stocks could run further as the oil price rises, we have pared back the exposure, while still remaining substantially overweight for the overall portfolio. Now more of the exposure is to the integrated energy companies where we perceive greater under-valuation.

The weighting to technology has increased such that it is now the third largest exposure within the portfolio. New companies added in the last half include Apple, and Omron. The first of those is a name familiar to most people, while Omron is a Japanese manufacturer of electronic components and equipment for factory automation. Positions in Alphabet (parent of Google), Baidu and Oracle were also increased.

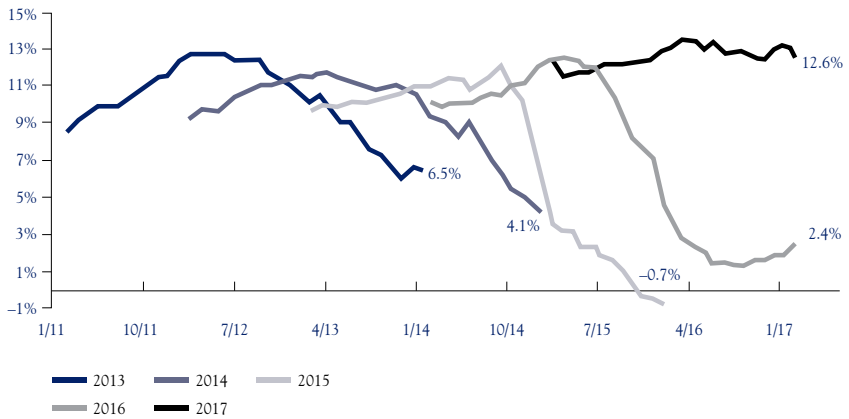

While the last six months' recovery in value has been significant, it has not significantly redressed the huge gap in tangible book multiples that we highlighted in the last investment manager's report. What was a discount to the mean valuation of almost three standard deviations to historical valuations, still sits above a two standard discount to historical valuations.

Source: Bloomberg

In the report to shareholders with the 2016 annual report we argued that “an eventual rise in interest rates and the mean-reverting tendency of valuation extremes should support a recovery in value investing. Historically, economic recovery has been an important driver of value out-performance but it is by no means a precondition for a value rebound.” So far we’ve seen a range of market interest rates move higher. Most notably in the US with the second increase in the US Federal Funds rate, but also with rising yields on US Treasuries and in other global government bond markets. As highlighted earlier, the valuation extremes have narrowed somewhat, but remain historically wide. Will 2017 witness a broadening in earnings momentum, to more sectors and regions? While it is early days so far the signs are that this is happening (see the chart below), if so, it could be a third leg to support a value recovery.

OUTLOOK

Rate cycles are long and difficult to call, though signs of an inflection point are emerging. We expect nominal interest rates to rise, driven by higher inflation and stronger economic growth. It looks like a challenging environment for investors in bonds and equity-market bond proxies.

We believe the fundamental underpinnings for value's recovery remain intact, and expect the next leg to be driven by improving earnings. The last six months' of value recovery have closed part of the discount but it remains substantial. An earnings improvement in Europe would substantially buoy shares in that region.

We believe that TGG's portfolio is well positioned should the scenario outlined above occur.

RESULTS AND REVIEW OF OPERATIONS

The Company invests in a globally diversified portfolio of primarily international securities. The Company does not hedge the underlying currencies in which the portfolio is invested. The Company's operations did not change during the reporting period.

The key elements of this half year report are referred to below.

Revenue:

Revenue is represented by dividends from investments, interest income and other sundry receipts. In total, revenue for the reporting period was $3,424,153 down from $3,688,770 in the previous corresponding period ("pcp"). Dividend income for the reporting period was $3,212,949 compared to $3,568,738 in the pcp.

Profit after income tax for the half year:

The profit after tax for the reporting period was $1,015,408 compared to a profit after tax of $1,054,749 in the pcp.

Other comprehensive income:

The after tax effect of realised and unrealised capital gains or losses are recorded directly to equity and disclosed in the statement of comprehensive income. In the reporting period $30,788,851 of realised and unrealised capital gains (net of tax) were reported as other comprehensive income compared to realised and unrealised capital losses (net of tax) of $12,204,445 in the pcip.

Net tangible asset backing per share (“NTA”):

The NTA increased from $1.28 per share at 30 June 2016 to $1.43 per share at 31 December 2016. This was after the payment of a 4.5 cent per share final dividend in September 2016. The NTA over the previous five years has been:

As at 31 December	NTA cents per share After Actual Tax*	After Estimated Tax
2016	143	138
30 June 2016	128	128
2015	139	135
2014	142	138
2013	142	139
2012	96	96

* “Actual Tax” is all Australian and Foreign income tax for which a liability has risen and therefore excludes deferred tax.
  “Estimated Tax” is estimated tax if the company disposed of its total investment portfolio at its market value.
 However, the company is a long term investor and does not intend to dispose of its total investment portfolio.

The Company’s Annual General Meeting (“AGM”) was held on 4 November 2016. At the AGM, the Financial Report of the Company, the Reports of the Directors for the financial year ended 30 June 2016 were received and considered. Jennifer M Johnson and Gregory E McGowan were re-elected as Directors of the Company. The Remuneration Report for the financial year ended 30 June 2016 was adopted. However, the votes cast against this resolution were greater than 25% of total votes cast and, accordingly, the Company received a ‘second strike’, requiring a resolution to be put to the meeting to consider whether an extraordinary general meeting should be held at which the appointment of all Directors would be put to a shareholder vote (“Spill Resolution”). The Spill Resolution was not carried and no extraordinary general meeting was required to be held.

The Company continues to believe the ‘strikes’ were not directed at the Remuneration Report which it considers unexceptional. Rather the Company considers that the strikes related to the activities of a few shareholders seeking to influence the composition of the Board.

INVESTMENT PERFORMANCE

The Company’s investment portfolio increased by $22,422,758 over the reporting period. When taking into account the impact of the dividend paid and the on market share buy-back, the investment performance for the period was 16.0% (net of expenses), compared to the MSCI All Country World Index (“index”) of 9.6% over the six months to 31 December 2016.

The Company’s portfolio outperformed the market in the period under review by 6.4%, due primarily to its stock selection – particularly the overweight positions in the energy, industrial and financial sectors, as compared to the Index.

DIVIDENDS

On 24 August 2016 the Directors declared a final dividend in respect of the year ended 30 June 2016 of 4.5 cents per share at 2.5 cents fully franked and 2.0 cents unfranked which was paid from current year realised capital gains net of tax and retained earnings. The dividend also included a LIC capital gains component attributable to 2.5 cents per share. The dividend was paid to shareholders on 23 September 2016.

No interim dividend has been declared in respect of the half year to 31 December 2016 (31 December 2015: nil).

The dividend/distribution target for 2016/2017 will be a minimum of 3% of the value of the Company’s pre-estimated tax Net Tangible Assets (“NTA”) at 30 June 2016, which equates to 3.8 cents per share. This dividend will be paid from retained earnings and/or realised capital gains net of tax for the period. As at December 2016, the retained earnings position equates to 4.0 cents per share and net realised capital gains (net of tax) of 0.6 cents per share.

CAPITAL MANAGEMENT

The Company had in place an on market share buy-back which operated during the reporting period. There were 10,279,680 shares at cost of $12,104,702 purchased for the half year ended 31 December 2016.

The on market share buy-back was not in place during the prior corresponding period.

AUDITOR’S INDEPENDENCE DECLARATION

The auditor’s independence declaration given under Section 307C of the Corporations Act 2001 forms part of the Directors’ Report for the half year ended 31 December 2016.

10. FAIR VALUE OF FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

The following table shows financial instruments recorded at fair value, analysed between those whose fair value is based on quoted market prices ("Level 1"), those involving valuation techniques where all the model inputs are observable in the market ("Level 2") and those where the valuation technique involves the use of non-market observable inputs ("Level 3"). All of the Company's financial assets are investments in listed securities (Level 1). The Company has no financial liabilities measured at fair value.

	31 December 2016		30 June 2016
	Level 1	Total	Level 1	Total

The level in which instruments are classified in the hierarchy is based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement in its entirety.

The fair value of listed equity is based on quoted market bid prices at the reporting date, without any deduction for transaction costs. These instruments are included in level 1.

The Company's portfolio of investments has, since the Company's inception, consisted of securities chosen primarily on the basis of their long term appreciation potential.
